ACCOUNTABILITY

My name is Paul Hellyer and it is my opinion that the quality of government in the G20 countries since the group was formed in 1999 has been almost universally bad. Leaders appear to be totally oblivious to the real needs of ordinary people. Canada is no exception as was self evident in the 2019 election campaign. So this is a letter to the prime minister urging him to work with the other party leaders to end our feelings of hopelessness and despair.

OBLIVIOSITY

It's a great day! My stocks have gone up again!

FOUR LOST YEARS 2015 – 2019

December 2019

Dear Prime Minister:

You may recall that the day you were sworn in four years ago I wrote a congratulatory letter suggesting that if you were willing to think outside the box, you could use government-created money to finance your extravagant promises. and also to finance the rapid transformation from an oil economy to a zero point energy economy to help save the planet from over-heating. I suggested that you buy, beg, borrow or steal the technology and start development at once.
If you had gone all out to lead the world in the use of zero point technology all of the western Canadian cities, and many of the others, would today be producing thousands of zero point engines, generators and heaters. There would have been no western alienation because Albertans and others would be riding the leading edge of a new wave of technology, rather than clinging to the tail of one that must wither away if life on Earth is to be even reasonably tolerable. Global warming is a national and international emergency!

My letter also mentioned the chemtrail-HAARP problem that requires urgent attention, and the absolute necessity of introducing government created debt-free money (GCM). It is the only way to solve the myriad problems we face daily.

Global Warming is the World’s Biggest Problem

On November 5, 2019, more than 11,000 scientists from 153 countries declared a Climate Emergency and warned of “untold suffering.” That is clear enough for anyone to understand and consistent with warnings going back a decade or more. That is what troubled me during the election when I saw you riding two horses running in opposite directions – one toward climate control and the other to build a pipeline that will commit us to a 25 or 30-year extension of the oil economy.

Some of us were praying for a minority government so that the PM, whoever he or she might be, would be subject to thought-provoking discussion of these life and death problems. But I was stunned when, after a few minutes thought, you announced that, “The pipeline will be built.” If you think that is the best solution for either the west or the east you had better think again. The pipeline must not be built. Period. You should take the entire $10 to $15 billion dollars and invest it in clean zero point energy. Do that and you can eliminate the carbon tax, make many voters happy, and eliminate unnecessary bureaucracy.

The Flip Side of Global Warming is Zero Point Energy

In the 4th Edition (2019) of Zero Point Energy: The Fuel of the Future, Thomas Valone says that Nikola Tesla was the first to describe the real essence of ZPE in 1891. There has been increasing interest over the years with hundreds of experiments. Yet the vast majority of Canadians, probably more than 95%, have never heard of it. Why is that so? It is because the banking cartel and the oil cartel, who keep a very tight grip on the technology, don’t want you to know.

They also control most of the English language press, both print and electronic. So when you read stories about windmills, solar panels, tidal power, and thermal power as substitutes for oil, the only one with the potential to really solve the problem is never listed.

The federal government should begin immediately to develop and manufacture ZPE generators and heaters. They should build plants in Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg where the number of jobs created would exceed the number lost from phasing out the oil economy. Factories should be built in almost every province with Ottawa retaining 51% ownership so foreigners couldn’t buy them.

ZPE is the third wave of the industrial revolution. First there was the steam engine, powered by coal. Next was the internal combustion engine powered by oil and gas. Now there is the third and final zero point energy engine powered by the inexhaustible energy that exists everywhere in the universe.

Ill Health, and Possible Death by Stealth

Geoengineering, Chemtrails, HAARP and an Ionized Sky

One of the four major issues I asked you to look into four years ago was chemtrails. But like all of the other major problems, you ignored it completely. The reason you have been able to get away with a crime of such magnitude is because the vast majority of voters are totally unaware. I spoke to 100 men in Brantford last September, 2019. When I asked how many were familiar with chemtrails only three raised their hands. Chemtrails, is a popularized name for atmospheric aerosols. They comprise what Dane Wigington and his team call “the single most environmentally destructive assault the human race has ever unleashed against nature and the whole web of life … mathematically the greatest and most immediate threat we collectively face short of nuclear cataclysm.” For more information on this critically important subject, and to see how chemtrails look, as opposed to contrails, go to GeoengineeringWatch.org.

To list all of the health issues would take up all of the remaining space. But in my memoirs I quote Dr. Russell Blaylock, a world famous neurosurgeon, who says that the nanoparticles of aluminum, barium and strontium that we inhale daily go directly into the bloodstream, then on to the brain and cause early Alzheimer’s, Parkinson’s, and Lou Gehrig’s disease in addition to all the other risks including autism. One other obvious hazard is the effect on trees and forests that tend to burn much more fiercely.

Why would anyone undertake such monstrous activities? Elana Freeland sums it up in the title of her first book, Chemtrails, HAARP, and the Full Spectrum Dominance of Planet Earth. In my opinion mighty empires should be relegated to the history books. Certainly Canada should not be an accessory to a world dictatorship whose goals include a dramatic reduction in world population.

So what you must do, prime minister, is to ask parliament to rescind the legislation under which the atrocities are occurring, and make any kind of geoengineering and aerosol distribution, without a license granted by the federal government for a specific beneficial purpose, be a criminal offence punishable by a ten year prison term.

Government Created Debt-Free Money

It was good for you to meet with the premiers before opening a new Parliament. I was surprised to see the jovial Doug Ford after your pledge of help in the areas of health, education, housing, and job creation. But do you know how many billions he needs? Many billions and that is just for one province. The total, including essential infrastructure, would exceed $50 billion a year. Did you ask yourself where you were going to get the money? Surely not by borrowing and increasing the debt, which under the present rotten financial system can never, ever be paid off! The only solution is to use the Bank of Canada to benefit its shareholders, rather than as an accessory to grand larceny.
The Canadian Precedent

From 1939 until 1974 due to the brilliance of its first Governor, Graham Towers, the Bank of Canada supplied the Government of Canada with large amounts of near zero cost money. This helped finance our significant role in World War II, and after the war to build the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Trans Canada Highway, the vast DEW line (radars around the periphery of the country) and many more infrastructure projects with only insignificant debt. But in 1974 Bank of Canada Governor Gerald Bouey was persuaded to adopt globalism (monetarism) and abide by Bank for International Settlements rules. These included an end to cheap money for governments. We had to pay market rates of interest. So from fiscal 1974/75 to 2013/14 we had to pay $1.37 trillion dollars in interest, all of it unnecessary.

A Social Contract Between the Government and People of Canada

In March 2013, forty concerned Canadians presented a plan to Finance Minister James Flaherty called “A Social Contract Between the Government and People of Canada.” It was designed to reduce bank leverage from 20/1 to 2/1 over a seven-year period, and reduce the amazing power of the international banking cartel. In a slightly more sophisticated version of the post war system the implementation called for the creation of $150 billion a year for seven years to be divided 50/50 between the federal and provincial governments. In subsequent years 34% of the new money created would be government created, and divided between the three levels of government.

Examples of the annual payout six years ago were Ontario $29.04 billion, Québec $17.319 billion, Alberta $8.329 billion, and Nova Scotia $2.04 billion. For a more comprehensive explanation of both the problem and the solution have one of your aides read The Money Mafia: A World in Crisis.

Your father’s political motto was A Just Society. But, we have never achieved it due to a financial system of constant austerity due to an insane financial system, where all new money is created as debt. In my final one-on-one luncheon with your father, when he was no longer PM, he accepted the policy of government created money after I showed him the results of economic projections by Informetrica Ltd. He wished me Godspeed, and said I could use his name in negotiations with the Liberal Party.

Unfortunately the new leader and his team, as with all successive leaders including yourself, believed they had access to all knowledge. In fact, as the results have shown, they were the custodians of a dry well. You were able to accomplish a few things in your first term, but far below the potential. You have been granted a reprieve. If you tackle these big issues and succeed you will be a hero. If you don’t, the Canadian people may start looking around for someone else who will.

With every best wish.

Canada’s Senior Privy Councillor
